Ask the Motor Medics®

Automotive Advice from The Under the Hood® Show

Dear Motor Medics,

I've got a noise under my hood that despite several attempts at repair persists. The vehicle is a 2014 Chevy Tahoe with a 5.3 engine and upon startup it will chirp from the engine drive belts for about 15 minutes no matter what the conditions. We have tried to repair this by switching the belt which resolved it for about a week. The next thing we tried was to replace the tensioner in hopes that the belt tension was incorrect. After the tensioner replacement, it lasted another week then was back to chirping again. Have you had this problem before and if so what kind of things have you done to stop the noise? My mechanic suggests trying a Gatorback belt. What is a Gatorback belt, and do you think it may help?

Daryl in Sheldon Iowa.

Dear Daryl,

When we have belt squeaks, we look very closely at all the rotating parts to make certain there is not a problem with alignment or wear that could be the root cause of the noise. We also check for proper tension and make sure the pulleys all have good bearings. With that all done we install a new belt and if it squeaks again soon after we sometimes use the Gatorback belt which is different in design in that it has grooves on both sides of the belt which can help to eliminate noise by providing a better gripping surface area.

Take care, the Motor Medics.

Dear Motor Medics,

Every time fuel prices go up, I start to see products on the market that claim to increase fuel mileage. Some are claiming to increase up to 4 mpg! These products range from a pill you drop in the tank at fill-up to devices installed into the air cleaner and other crazy things. If these products are so good, why are the car manufacturers not installing them at the factory instead of spending millions of dollars researching how to increase fuel mileage? And if there is a "pill" you can just drop in the tank to do the same then why don't the gas companies make a fuel that contains the pill contents in it already and market it as a fuel that gives you better mileage than the other guys?

Trent in Decorah Iowa.

Dear Trent,

While there are a few products that will help your car get a very limited increase in mileage, there are many more that are just a waste of your money. Before you buy, be very diligent in your research of each product. You will find that many have not been proven to work and the ones that do may not be cost effective. You may spend more on the product than you will make up for with the limited mileage gain. As you said, if it were so good the manufacturers and fuel companies would use it to meet their goals and improve their sales.

Take care, the Motor Medics.

Coming in tomorrow's

BRANDON VALLEY Journal

The BV Area Chamber of Commerce held the second of two Legislative Coffees on Saturday, and Tom A. Savage brings you a report on the big topics of discussion.

Discussion on saving the historic Risty Barn on the westside of the Brandon continues, and Journal editor Jill Meier enlightens you on who's doing the talking.

Bottom's Up was crowned champion of the 2024 Brandon Burger Battle, and we sat down with owners Troy and Denyse Novak for their thoughts on winning the big prize.

Two separate non-profits staged fundraisers on back-to-back nights, and this week's Journal includes photos from both the Chamber's Auction Amore on Friday evening and the 39th annual Ed Polzine Wild Game Feed on Saturday.

We also have some interesting features on a Brandon Realtor who is stepping in front of the camera and a 12-year-old poet who has maturity in her words.

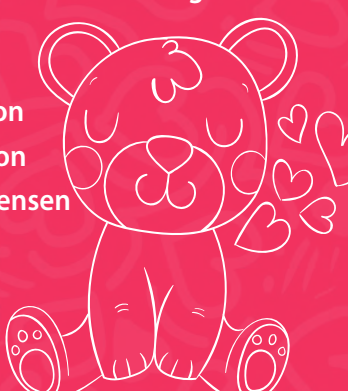

If it's Lynx sports that has your interest, of course we've got reports – and pictures from Saturday's State Wrestling Team Duals in Brookings, BV girls' and boys' basketball teams extending their win streaks, and five Lynx student-athletes who inked their futures in baseball and football on National Signing Day.

And there's a whole lot more. So, if you find yourself asking, "I wonder what's going on..." it's time to subscribe to the Brandon Valley Journal! Give us a call at (605) 582-9999 to subscribe today so you, too, can be in the know.
