Ask the Motor Medics®
Automotive Advice from The Under the Hood® Show

Dear Motor Medics,
What is your favorite car?

Michelle W in Elmira NY

Dear Michelle,
We'd have to say there's more than one. We asked the staff of our Under The Hood radio show and with the answers we received we came up with this...
It's Movie Cars! They're not always the actors we remember and love in films as much as the cars that are in them. Think of all the cool rides over the years from way back cars like Chitty Chitty Bang Bang, both the name of the car and the movie starring Dick Van Dyke to the newest of cars like the Charger of The Fast n' The Furious or more than a dozen others in the film. But the ones we agreed that we love the most are the ones with an extra special personality like KITT of Night Rider, the Bat Mobile, Wonder Bug, Scooby Doo's Mystery Machine or how about the Munster's Coach? There have been a ton of them over the years and there are surely more to come. Many were cars designed by the late great George Barris who was responsible for the design and building of many of them. It was hard to narrow them all down but after much argument over all of our beloved movie cars it came down to one. General Lee. That orange Charger that came into our homes with the Duke boys, Bo and Luke was the winner.

Take care, the Motor Medics

Dear Motor Medics,
I'm new to the diesel world, having just purchased a new very large camper to take the family on summer outings and I'm unfamiliar with a lot of little things that I did not have on my old half-ton gas engine truck. I upgraded to a 1 ton dually Dodge with and it needs DEF as well as Diesel and I'm wondering about other maintenance items as well. What can you tell me?

Mark in Muskegon Michigan

Dear Mark,
Upgrading to a heavier truck is a great idea in order to be sure you are properly matched for what you are pulling. A vehicle that is too small is just not safe to pull a large trailer. While a smaller truck may get it rolling eventually and be able to get you where you want to go it's also about stopping and a heavier truck is equipped with bigger brakes and a heavier suspension to handle the load. DEF is Diesel Exhaust Fluid. Its purpose is to reduce emissions from the tailpipe by injecting fluid into the exhaust for a more complete burn. The fluid must be used and if it runs out, you'll have trouble. The system will go into reduced power mode, and you'll be going nowhere fast. Oil changes and filters will cost more but overall, the bigger towing capacity should keep you safer and be more efficient for the towing you will be doing over the summer.

Take care, the Motor Medics
